holders would do well to see that their canines are fastened up before they run into his net.

The number of dog licenses issued this year having decreased so much from that of previous years, Mayor Paff has decided to get rid of the worthless curs which infest the city on which rollicenses have been paid.

Meny stray canines found their way to the dog pound today, which has been established near the city jail. What method will be used to kill the dogs has not yet been determined upon by those having the pound in charge.

It has been ten years since the old dog pound was discontinued, and in that time the dogs have had their way here.

Machen Drops His Fight.

In an interview with a reporter for The Times this morning, State Senator The Times this merning, state Senator Lewis H. Machen announced his intention of abandoning his fight for the publication of the two amendments to the constitution presented by him and adopted by the Legislature at its last session. Mr. Machen made three attempts to get a mandamus to compel Clerk John W. Williams, of the house of delegates, to have the amendments published. Judge Ingram, sitting in the law and equity court; Judge Witt, of hustings court, and Judge k. Carter Scott, of the city circuit court, all of Richmond, declined to grant the mandamus. The amendments were passed by both houses last session, but in the senate journal they were not recorded in full, which, under the new constitution, is required to be done before being valid. One of Senator Machen's amendments was for the Legislature from sixty to ninety days, and the other was to do away with roll calls on unimportant bills. Lewis H. Machen announced his inten-sued a fraud order against the Dey Right System Company, of Philadelphila, Pa., of which D. M. Hough is the manager.

"DARES" THEM TO INVEST; FRAUD ORDER ISSUED

The company is reported to have engaged in sending through the malisprinted circulars "daring" the readers thereof to send the company $\forall 10$ for investment. Nothing is promised by the concern in return, but it is alleged that the circulars were so worded that they enticingly suggested that the investors might receive $\forall 50$ or more in money within ten or fifteen days after making the investment.

The postoffice inspector reported that the company would send to each customer a certificate of stock in a mining corporation, the value of which at the time was entirely speculative and prospective.

BUSINESS TOO NERVOUS,

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Henry C. Frick came in on the liner New York from a vacation abrond. He said he had no new business interests, and, in fact, was trying to lessen his responsibilities in a business way, rather than to increase them. Asked his opinion of John W. Gates' assertion that it was time business quieted down, he said:

"It is time business settled somewhat. There is too much nervousness in the business world. I believe. At any rate, the country would not suffer if there were less, for a time at least."

Mr. Frick said he was going direct to Pittsburg.
